

Jim Jeffords is currently a county commissioner for Asotin County. Jim has lived in Eastern Washington for over 42 years, and has resided in Asotin County for the last 30 years. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Applied Psychology with a minor in Business Administration from Eastern Washington University in 1989 before working in all facets of the human resources field for over 25 years.

Prior to becoming an Asotin County Commissioner in 2011, Jim Jeffords worked with the City of Lewiston ID, Nez Perce Tribe, Idaho State Industrial Commission & Northeast Washington Rural Resources. As a county commissioner, he has been a member of the WSAC Legislative Steering Committee, a member of the "Foundational Public Health" policy workgroup and currently serve as Chairman of the Asotin County Health District.

Recreation is important to Jim and bicycling, swimming, snow skiing, river rafting and camping is how he spends my non-work time. Jim Jeffords is married with two grown children with four grandchildren.